Aims & Objective: To foster empathy, kindness, and inclusion by helping students appreciate that learning differences, like dyslexia, are simply part of what makes each of us special.

Summary: On Friday, 9th October, FS students completed a creative paper-hand activity after learning about dyslexia through a short video and discussion. They decorated their paper hands with positive messages such as “Be Kind” and “We All Learn Differently.” The activity encouraged children to celebrate differences in learning and promote kindness and inclusion within the classroom.
